
<Potent-Mal'Ganis> Application

We raid Friday/Saturday, 8:30pm-12:30am ET. Will you be able to consistently make these days/times? *

Failure to maintain near-perfect attendance will likely result in the loss of your raiding spot.

Unholiest - Proudmoore

Main Spec/Class *

Let us know if you have any viable off-specs.

My main spec is Windwalker, but I have played Brewmaster in a raid setting as a 3rd tank, or filling in when a tank was needed.

Outline your relevant raiding experience, including the guilds you were in previously and why you left them. *

I was in the guild <Eternal Kingdom> and on their team "Requiem" throughout Legion. In EN we pushed and got Cutting Edge, but came just shy of Cutting Edge on Gul'dan. In Tomb of Sargeras I decided to take a break from the game after killing Mythic Sisters, but returned at the beginning of Antorus. Throughout the entire expansion, the team has had roster issues - and it hit us really hard in Antorus. At the end, we were up to 400-500 pulls on Argus, but then the team was ultimately disbanded due to drama that sparked up within the guild. The team ended up reforming in another guild for BFA, which I have been raiding with for the last week to 6/8H, but have decided to go my separate way with the team after some differences between myself and the raid leader.

What resources do you use to keep up with your class? *

The main resources that I use to keep up with Monk is the "peakofserenity" website, as well as the Monk discord.

Why do you want to join Potent? What sets you apart from other players? *

Feel free to brag as much as you want. If you're good at something, tell us.

I want to join Potent for a multitude of reasons. The raid days and times would fit me very well. In addition to that, the raid team seems to be the type of environment that I am looking for, and sounds like a solid progression oriented guild - from what I have heard. I think one of the things that sets me apart from others is that I have been playing Windwalker since the release of Monks in Mists of Pandaria, but like I said, I am also open to switching to Brewmaster whenever it may be needed - and I am confident and competent in my abilities as a Brewmaster as well. I am also confident in my capabilities as a Windwalker DPS and as a player, but I am always looking to improve in any way I can. Whether it is through my personal analysis of logs, through other information sources that are out there - like peakofserenity.com -, or through criticism provided by other players, I am always open and searching. Likewise, I am well aware of how progression raiding works and I understand that everyone needs to see time in raid and swaps need to be made from time to time, and I am perfectly OK with that. On top of that, if I am going to be sat for the betterment of the raid in any situation, I am all for it. And at the risk of sounding cheesy or like I am trying too hard: I am interested in the Raid Team's progression first, and myself second.

How did you hear about Potent? *

My friend Natureswound is a part of the guild.

Tell us a little about yourself. *

Well, you might have guessed that one of my hobbies is playing video games. I am always looking for something to play if I might not be playing WoW, and enjoy playing games with friends. At the risk of sounding "girly," my favorite movie of all time is definitely "About Time." My girlfriend and I have made it a tradition to watch it every Valentine's Day, but I usually can't wait an entire year to watch it again. I did recently celebrate my 28th birthday, so I'm closing in on that 30 year "old" brand, but I don't think I'll ever grow up completely.
