

<Potent-Mal'Ganis> Application

We raid Tuesday/Thursday, 8:30pm-12:30am ET. Will you be able to consistently make these days/times? *

Failure to maintain near-perfect attendance will likely result in the loss of your raiding spot.

☐ Yes

☐ No

☒ Other:

Yes I will be able to, up until summer, when I'm moving to a different state, and the date is TBD. But I don't think it lines up with any raid content, either way, as we get closer to summer I'll know more about my moving date and will easily be able to plan around it.

7/8m Uldir as Mage/Rogue. Swapped to heals because we had some healers quit, got to 3/8m on pugs as Hpal. Currently 5/9m. I left for multiple reasons, not enough progress for my liking, not everyone shows the same effort/interest in raiding (the bottom end being pretty bottom) and refusal to recruit more players. And the biggest reason of all, raid lead was getting increasingly toxic to the point where long time friends were confronting him about it.

What resources do you use to keep up with your class? *

I don't really use anything, other than feelcrafting (as in doing what I think is best), simming and reading patch notes. And at least for my class, I feel like their discord is just a giant meme.

Why do you want to join Potent? What sets you apart from other players? *

Feel free to brag as much as you want. If you're good at something, tell us.

I want to actually kill stuff with players that also want to kill stuff at a reasonable pace. 8 hour raid times sound fine with me.

I feel what sets me apart is the way I look at things, as a healer I value doing dps over increasing my hps to "look good". Simply because while yes, I could do more hps, I could also do more dps instead, because only one will actually help down the boss (provided I don't let people die obviously). That and its hard to convince other healers to afk or my raid lead to let us 4 heal a fight instead of 5 healing it. I also hate sub 2% wipes when it can almost always be fixed with healer dps, every healer has spare globals they could dump into a dot.

As a dps, I can always be trusted to do X mechanic correctly, and as ret, you're kinda forced into that role regardless.

I don't really care about my personal logs, because as long as everyone stops caring about them, and doing what's best for the team during the raid, the boss will eventually fall over, and I think that's an objective fact.

How did you hear about Potent? *

Wow progress told me you were front page material.

Tell us a little about yourself. *

My name is Leo, I'm 27, look like i'm 17, and got shingles when I was 25.

I've been playing wow since Firelands was current content in a server first guild, taking a long break after 5.2 (thunderking). Getting back into the game for legion with a roommates' semi casual guild, taking a break before Nighthold was out (early legion and legendaries was ass imo), coming back before Antorus to play with some rl friends in hopes of making a casual heroic raiding guild for the rest of legion and battle for azeroth, but they quickly lost interest, so I found Mythic Regression and I already talked about that before, but that brings us to current date for my wow career.
