
<Potent-Mal'Ganis> Application

We raid Friday/Saturday, 8:30pm-12:30am ET. Will you be able to consistently make these days/times? *

Failure to maintain near-perfect attendance will likely result in the loss of your raiding spot.

☒ Yes

☐ No

☐ Other:

BattleTag *

Anika#11629

Discord Tag *

We use Discord for voice.

Racoon#6567

Character Name/Server *

Racoongirl-Lightbringer

Main Spec/Class *

Let us know if you have any viable off-specs.

Holy Paladin

Warcraft Logs *

Please link your "Detailed Rankings" page. If you've server transferred, link all relevant pages.

<https://www.warcraftlogs.com/character/us/lightbringer/racoongirl#>

Outline your relevant raiding experience, including the guilds you were in previously and why you left them. *

I've been in a few guilds over the years, but I'll keep this down to the most notable info.

The first notable guild I was in was Something Wicked on Whisperwind, where I raided on my Shadow Priest at the time during the start of Cataclysm. I wasn't particularly amazing because I was much younger and inexperienced, but I did manage to keep on par with their raid team and was able to complete Sinestra with them. I don't recall the actual rankings, and wasn't able to find logs, but I remember being around 60-70 average on most fights. We finished around world 400 or 500 IIRC.

Towards the end of Cataclysm, I joined another semi-casual group that managed to finish 8/8H Dragon Soul. I remember us being around the world 1000~ rank. My claim to fame was with my shadow priest, where I routinely would get top 100 ranks on Madness of Deathwing! I think I found the log itself, but it was deleted (on WoL)

In MOP, I mostly did PvP content with my HPally casually, and only started raiding in Heroic(mythic) in SoO. I joined another group that was around 1000~ world, and met a warrior who played in this guild for his friends, but raided with WHATEVER WERE AWESOME, which was a top 10 world guild at the time. He played a warrior in both guilds, and I was able to keep up with his alt warrior (and sometimes even beat him) and regularly ranked around the high 90s as Fury.

In WOD I played casually on the Warrior; PvPing on the Paladin and then later raiding again on my old Holy Priest.

In Legion I main switched to raid on my Shadow Priest again, but ended up falling out with it. I took a short hiatus, tried other classes and specs, and settled on Healing as both a Holy Priest and a Holy Paladin.

During Legion, I was able to clear 7/9m TOS and 9/11m ANT with my guild. My Paladin was later geared up through M+ and I played both depending on what the needs of the guild were at the time. I got my Priest up to 3400 on raider io, and my paladin to 3100 as well.

I found I preferred the more reactive playstyle of my Holy Paladin, and I have been sinking thousands of hours into her ever since. That being said, I do still love my Priest, and I enjoy healing in general. I've found since taking a Healer role, my mechanics have significantly improved, and my ability to understand and even play other classes has improved as well.

I want to take that to the next level.

What resources do you use to keep up with your class? *

I use the paladin discord primarily, and I generally cross-reference what people recommend on the discord with what I read on forums/guides like Icy Veins. I need to meet more high-skill players honestly, because I've lost a huge network of people I used to speak to directly about what worked for them in specific situations and things like that.

For now, experimentation, going over logs, and asking around has been mostly successful, but I'm open to anything that would help me improve myself.

Provide a screenshot of your UI in a raid environment. *

<https://imgur.com/a/1RbmYJK>

Why do you want to join Potent? What sets you apart from other players? *

Feel free to brag as much as you want. If you're good at something, tell us.

I will preface this by saying I am not going to be the most experienced person you'll recruit when it comes to competitive raiding, but I know you will find me to be one of the most passionate and dedicated towards improving their personal gameplay, as well as helping to coordinate and integrate with the team.

I've been playing for 14 years, and I feel that while I have had some moderate success in years past with more competitive raiding, I feel like I have a lot more potential to tap into, and I really want to see what my limits actually are, and if I can't push them a bit further.

I'm generally very relaxed, very cool headed, and always the guy that will try to keep others chill as well. Down to the last 1% of HP, or milling about on farm, I keep my focus.

I'm looking for a guild that I can play with, grow with, and eventually execute some really challenging content with. I want to find people who are like-minded in that we are focused on not only improving ourselves, but the team as a whole.

To sum up my huge wall of text;

I'm not here for gear, I'm here for the challenge and the experience.

I'm bringing endless determination, a positive attitude, and several years of experience.

How did you hear about Potent? *

Overclocked added me on battle.net in response to my post on the battle.net forums

Tell us a little about yourself. *

I'm a 27 year old Canuck that loves shooting guns. Yes, you can do that here! I also just started getting into Airsoft to get back into shape from an injury I had a few years ago. Been an absolute blast! I also like talking about art, guns (I own several! both real, and Airsoft), and making crappy image macros in Discord!

Thanks again for taking the time to read my application!

This form was created inside of alangbert.

Google Forms