Outline your relevant raiding experience, including the guilds you were in previously and why you left them. *

Started mythic raiding in Antorus with <Atypical> on Tichondrius, I left after we killed Kin'Goroth due to the RL, another officer, and a few other key members having left the guild for unexplained reasons and the overall culture/feel of the guild being very different and not to my liking.

Joined <Roadrunners> on Kil'Jaeden and finished Antorus 11/11M with CE. Left to trial for a new guild at the beginning of Uldir due to our GM/RL and a large portion of our core raiders quitting the game/raiding after killing mythic Argus, as well as my desire to raid at a higher level.

Tried with <Nascent> on Emerald Dream during Uldir (they finished US 58th), but when we got to G'huun they weren't planning to use me and their long-time enhancement shaman had decided he was going to reroll to rogue, so I was no longer needed.

A couple of my close friends in <Roadrunners> convinced me to come back afterwards, and I was there again for a couple of months (I'm still currently in the guild, just not raiding with them). After we killed Mythrax I decided to take a break from wow, mainly due to the disorganization and lack of commitment to progression most of the raid team had that really started to become a problem when we got to ghuun (and even mythrax to a certain extent). I felt like I was wasting my time and effort preparing and trying my best 9 hours per week, and so I decided to take a break until BoD released.

Why do you want to join Potent? What sets you apart from other players? *

Feel free to brag as much as you want. If you're good at something, tell us.

A big reason I want to join Potent is my aim to only raid 2 days per week instead of 3, preferably Fri/Sat which fits your schedule. I also have the desire to raid at a higher level than I have been (aside from my time with Nascent), with aspirations to be a part of a US top 100 raid team which fits in with your goal of being a top 75 US guild. I also want to be in a guild where everyone is expected to come prepared ready to kick ass, contrary to Roadrunners where it seems most people just wing it and don't prepare ahead of time which can be irritating at times.

As for me, I consider myself to be a very reliable raider, having rarely ever missed a raid night since I began mythic raiding in Antorus. I'm also a player who isn't selfish and am willing to do the dirty work others dislike when it's needed (clearing the bridge the 2nd/4th time on Mythic Imonar or running orbs on Mythic Portal Keeper in Antorus come to mind).

I'm also a fairly easy-going raider. While I want to have great success as a raider, I also want to enjoy my hobby and have fun, and getting angry or toxic towards others doesn't help anyone and isn't how I want to spend my time. I'm also always looking to further increase my skill as a player, and as such openly welcome constructive criticism from others, as well as anything else that can help me become a better player and teammate within the raid.

Tell us a little about yourself. *

My name is Daniel, and I'm a 22 year old college student from Portland, Oregon. I've been playing wow on and off since BC, and have mained a rogue since MoP. I enjoy playing other video games as well outside of WoW (I've been really into the Dark Souls games lately). I also like sports, mainly the NBA and NFL, but I don't follow them religiously. I'm a big fan of rock/metal music, and I'm almost always listening to some kind of music at any given time, especially during raid.
